EXACT USER PROMPT

Convert the text below into a complete semantic HTML document. Use HTML only: no CSS, style elem ents, style attributes, JavaScript, or event-handler attributes.

Preserve every word, punctuation mark, and the order of the supplied text. Do not add content or rewrite the paragraphs.

Use <!DOCTYPE html>, <html lang="en">, a <head> with <meta charset="UTF-8"> and a descriptive <t itle>, and a <body>. Place the main title in a page-level <header> with exactly one <h1>. Put th e three content sections in a single <main>. Use a <section> for each topic, an <h2> for each se ction heading, and a  for each supplied paragraph. Keep heading levels sequential. Put the su pplied author and date line in a page-level <footer>; mark the date with <time datetime="2026-10
-10"> while preserving its visible text. Prefer native semantic elements without redundant ARIA roles. Close all elements correctly. Return only the HTML in one code block, without explanation s.

Text:

The Feeling of Shooting

Physical Contact and Conditioning
I love basketball because it involves a lot of physical contact. Since I am naturally lean and s mall, this motivates me to work out and build a stronger physique. Defeating opponents who are p hysically stronger than me brings me joy and a great sense of accomplishment. Making a basket ma kes me feel happy.

Friendship and Teamwork
I believe playing basketball fosters friendships while also providing a good workout. I particul arly enjoy teaming up with friends to defeat stronger opponents.

My Goal
My goal is to dunk. I think dunking looks really cool, so I train my legs three times a week, ho ping to achieve this goal one day.
